The great inequality violates the existence of millions of human beings

Sources: Rebellion

Every year I write for these dates a type of reflection on some of the aspects that I consider relevant for the immediate future of humanity.

They are not letters loaded with pretension, but they are words that arise from the daily concern regarding the surrounding events, the intention is to remind us that not only these "good nights" are what is lived in the world, this, due to the great inequality that violates the existence of millions of human beings and, as we know, only now has the Ómicron variant become a very worrying alert issued by the World Health Organization (WHO), about the growing statistics on the number of infections and deaths that Covid-19 continues to cause.

The inequality referred to can be observed – as we have said before – in the vaccination processes, these being a very clear mirror of the injustice that plagues humanity, since developed countries have begun the application of a third dose of the antidote, when there are still other nations that have not managed to meet the demand for vaccination in a first injection for their population, and of course, the latter belong to the underdeveloped countries that are in the so-called peripheries of capitalist "development and modernity".

It is fair and necessary to bring to these lines again the issue of migration, because as we have seen, the policies between the border governments of North America have not changed or been softened to give a real solution, on the contrary, forms of repression, containment and expulsion of migrants continue to be implemented, regardless of their health conditions, age, gender, or any other, government discrimination and dehumanization manifest themselves when issuing statements in a supposed tone of "concern" in front of the media, but at the real time of extending the hand this is withdrawn to put in place the stick and contempt of those who only seek a better life to which they did not have abscess for the conditions extremes of existence to which they were condemned by this system that segregates them for the simple fact of existing.

In countries like Mexico, the pandemic and extreme poverty have given way to the revelation of an endless number of injustices that were already announced, but that for one reason or another, or for one or another interest, remained silenced. That is why I believe that these times should serve to think and rethink what society we want and where we consider we must move forward to guarantee a full development of humanity, as we can see, inequalities increased and the peak of the economic crisis is not yet felt, the January slope, precariousness and famine, together with the excessive inflation caused by the cycles of "free" self-regulation of the capitalist economy, they put us on the tightrope, since either we become collectively aware for the improvement of the lives of workers, or we will continue to suffer endlessly from the extreme living conditions that have millions of human beings in an alarming situation. Whether one is a believer or not, this and other dates are an opportunity to reorient the course and satisfy the elementary rights of humanity, only in this way, we can talk about happy holidays!
