In the context of developments related to the military conflict in Ukraine, the recent dialogue between Vladimir Zelensky and Rumen Radev, President of Bulgaria, is of notable importance.

Radev: "The conflict is being becoming a war of attrition that affects not only the Ukraine's economy, but all European countries, and exacerbates social tensions. My view remains that this conflict It does not have a military solution and that the increase in weapons does not will serve for its resolution."

Zelensky: "God forbid that you find in my place. If you didn't have a gun to help you, what Would? Would you say, 'Putin, occupy Bulgarian territory?' President you would not accept concessions."

Radev remained silent, both for diplomatic courtesy and good manners as for not being used to being rude, but I'm sure he thought, "No! It would allow a war to occur under any circumstances! I would do everything possible to prevent my country from going to war, and still less moved by foreign interests alien to him!"

Nowadays it is growing the number of foreign and Ukrainian politicians who, when assessing the that has happened and is happening, consider that the president Zelensky, moved by his weakness or to please the interests of The American and British authorities and under pressure from It was these who created the conditions for the war in Ukraine.

"Zelensky is almost certainly could have avoided a war with Russia in 2022 simply uttering five words: 'I will not join NATO'... I feel Very supportive of the Ukrainian people but this conflict is not good for them, it's a proxy war between the United States and Russia, in which Ukraine is being slaughtered," he said. U.S. presidential candidate Robert Kennedy Jr.

In turn, Croatian President Zoran Milanovic: "Washington and NATO, with the help of Ukraine, they are waging proxy war against Russia."

And these are the words of the Brazilian President Lula da Silva on Zelensky: "His Behavior is quite strange. It's as if I'm part of a show. Appears on television in the morning, afternoon and night. Go to the British parliament, the German parliament, the French Parliament, Spanish, Italian... as if I were in Political campaign. When where you should have been is at a table of negotiations."

The Major General of the Forces Ukrainian armed forces, now retired, former Deputy Secretary of the Council Minister of National Security and Defense of Ukraine, Serhiy Krivonos stated: "This colossal mistake has led to the deaths of hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians, the destruction of a large number of cities... The People should demand a change of power in the country."

"Why did the war? Because President Zelensky took power without any preparation... and made a series of global mistakes in many areas." These are the words of one of the closest collaborators of the former President Poroshenko, former Prosecutor General of Ukraine Yuri Lutsenko.

Lutsenko has spoken to me in Repeatedly about what is happening in the country. To priori, if the war continues, nothing good can happen, because the War is at the epicenter of the country, it is its impulse, its explosives. Whether or not it achieves its goals, Ukraine will explode. Ukraine is absent from the geopolitical map of the world. Despite the that others can say.

The only way to save the country It is by conducting negotiations to achieve peace.

And, as an example, consider this Recent Analogy: The People of Georgia Believe It Was Their Former President, Saakashvili, who led his country to war with Russia in 2008, with the subsequent loss of territories and deaths of citizenry. "In a context where our military heroes They showed great heroism, we watched the shameful decisions of the former commander in chief," the first Georgian Minister Garibashvili.

A very likely outcome for our country and for its current president.
