The price Israel will pay for genocide is moral disintegration. Its ruling class is steeped in cynicism and arrogance

Disintegration

Moshe Dayan said in 1967 that Israel must act like a mad dog, so that its enemies will know that its hostile actions will receive an immeasurable response. A strategy that infinitely expands the biblical "an eye for an eye."

Hit schools, destroy hospitals, kill, kill, kill. Okay, we've got it, but I don't know if Israel's leaders realize the tsunami of horror they're unleashing in the global psychosphere. A month of uninterrupted horror that, first of all, erased from the collective psyche the horror of October 7, and then produced the conditions for a monstrous mutation in the perception of Israel by the planetary mind.

From a clinical perspective, the vast majority of Israelis today appear as psychopaths who have lost all moral inhibition and are therefore dangerous to others but also to themselves and to anyone who trusts them, to anyone who has somehow handed them their fate.

"The whole West, for reasons that are not noble at all, has surrendered its destiny to Israel."

The entire West, for reasons that are far from noble (the sense of guilt linked to the Holocaust that has morphed into a negative identity of Europe), has surrendered its fate to Israel. President Biden has handed over his fate to Israel.

There have been massacres in the past: those of Daesh and Bashir al-Assad in Syria, those of Fallujah under the white match of the Americans in 2005, etc. But none of the countless outbursts of violence had been broadcast on every screen in the world continuously for a month or who knows how much longer. No one had ever so completely occupied the infosphere and, consequently, the psychosphere of the entire planet.

What consequences do the Israeli avengers expect from this tsunami of horror, beyond the improbable annihilation of Hamas?

Can the tortured body of an entire population be exposed without paying the price?

No one knows how the political-military situation will evolve, but we can assume that the Arab states, much more attentive to the pockets of nationalist elites than to Islamic solidarity, will continue with their condemnations without renouncing business and agreements with Israel. This is not the price Israel will pay. The Western establishment and the Arab establishment will not break with the Zionist entity.

"Jewish memory cannot coexist for long with responsibility for genocide"

The price Israel will pay is its moral disintegration. Israel's ruling class is steeped in cynicism and arrogance, it will not back down from any crime to maintain control of the situation, but it will not be able to maintain that control for long, because the catastrophe of the Palestinians is the moral catastrophe of the Israelis. Jewish memory cannot coexist for long with responsibility for genocide. The American Jewish community occupied the halls of the Capitol and the Statue of Liberty to say, "Not in my name," to reject identification with Israel's exterminators.

Israel is no longer (if it ever was) a representation of Judaism; It's their shame, their inverted image.
