Five civilians killed in Helmand blast

February 4, 2013

Five civilians were killed when their vehicle struck an improvised explosive device in Khashin district of Helmand province yesterday, an official said Sunday.

The deceased included two minor girls, a woman, a man and driver of the vehicle, the Khanshin district governor Shah Muhammad told the Afghan Islamic Press (AIP).

“The ill-fated people, possibly of a same family, were on their way towards Bagharabad area of Nawa district in a rented car,” the district governor said on behalf of the area people. “Their bodies are still lying in the area due to presence of more IEDs. We have urged the foreign forces to help retrieve the bodies,” he added.

Taliban kill man: KANDAHAR (AIP): The Taliban allegedly shot dead an official in Kandahar City on Sunday.

The Taliban spokesman Qari Muhammad Yousaf Ahmadi told the Afghan Islamic Press (AIP) their fighters killed an official along with his guard in the second security district of Kandahar City.

Meanwhile, the Kandahar governor’s spokesman Javed Faisal told the AIP that armed motorcyclists shot dead a man in Akhund Sahib Dahna area of the second security district. He said he did not know whether he was an official or not.

The police registered a case and started investigation, he added.
