Teenager Afghan boys sexually abused in Iran

January 15, 2015

A disturbing video has been circulating in social media which purports to show the sexual abuse of two young Afghan boys.

The incident has reportedly taken place in Gharibabad area of Iran where the two young men who appear to be around 13 to 14-year-old. Although, one of the boys claims he is 16 and the other says he is 17-year-old.

The young boys who appear to be in the custody of two men are forced to sexual abuse each other and are beaten with sticks.

The authenticity of the video has not been verified. However, it also appears that the two teenager boys were forced to confess that they were caught over adultery.

The video is released a month after a group of Afghan students were punished and humiliated by their teacher in Iran.

The local media agencies reported earlier in mid-December that the group included four students who were all third graders and were subjected to punishment and humiliation after they failed to bring study materials and their homework.

The students identified as Hamid, Murtaza, Yaseen and Mohammad Reza, were studying in a local school in Pakdasht district and were forced by the class teacher to put their hands in toilet and eat their filthy hands.

The relatives of the children said the school officials have warned them to close the school for the Afghans if further actions were taken and complaints were lodged regarding the incident.
